Mr and Mrs Brown first met Paddington on a railway platform. In fact, that was how he came to have such an unusual name for a bear, for Paddington was the name of the station.

The Browns were there to meet their daughter Judy, who was coming home from school for the holidays. It was a warm summer day and the station was crowded with people on their way to the seaside. Trains were humming, loudspeakers blaring, porters rushing about shouting at one another, and altogether there was so much noise that Mr Brown, who saw him first, had to tell his wife several times before she understood.

“A bear? On Paddington station?” Mrs Brown looked at her husband in amazement. “Don’t be silly, Henry. There can’t be!”

Mr Brown adjusted his glasses. “But there is,” he insisted. “I distinctly saw it. Over there – near the bicycle rack. It was wearing a funny kind of hat.”

Without waiting for a reply, he caught hold of his wife’s arm and pushed her through the crowd, round a trolley laden with chocolate and cups of tea, past a bookstall, and through a gap in a pile of suitcases towards the Lost Property Office.

“There you are,” he announced triumphantly, pointing towards a dark corner, “I told you so!”

4. What is the atmosphere like in the station? Use evidence from the text to support your answer. (2 marks)

It is busy and bustling and noisy. I know this because it says "the station was crowded with people", "trains were humming, loudspeakers blaring, porters...shouting." This shows that there was lots of action at the station which would have made it seem hectic and loud.

5. How does Mrs Brown feel when she is told there is a bear at the station? Use evidence from the text to support your answer. (2 marks)

Mrs Brown feels shocked. I know this because in the text it says, "she looked at her husband in amazement and told Mr Brown 'not to be silly'. This suggests that she doubts what she is being told and she thinks her husband is making it up or seeing things.

6. Place these events in chronological order using the numbers 1 - 6.
