

Reread what you wrote yesterday. Change some of the words so that it says exactly what you want it to say.

You may want to look at yesterday's writing challenge again and add in some of the other senses.

Writing Challenge:

★ Can you explore more of the senses? You may like to try the following pattern:

I opened the magical door and saw ...

I opened the magical door and heard ...

I opened the magical door and smelt ...

I opened the magical door and touched ...

I opened the magical door and found ...

I opened the magical door and touched ...

A forest of ice-cold mirrors,
blinding me in dazzling white light,
sending shivers down my spine.

I opened the magical door and smelt ...

A feast of my favourite foods
Guarded by monster chips
Ready to answer all my hungry wishes.

Then copy out your poem in best handwriting and illustrate it. You may use a word processor instead and type your poem and insert pictures.

You are more than welcome to send me your poem via Showbie.
